

PHILOSOPHY DEPARTMENT COLLOQUIUM SPRING 2005

- Friday, Jan. 21 JUSTIN WEINBERG (Ph.D. Georgetown University)
“Exploitation and Associations:
A Critique of the Power-Relations Argument for Statism”
- Friday, Jan. 28 REBECCA STANGL (Ph.D. Candidate, University of Notre Dame)
“Thinking about the Unthinkable:
The Virtuous Agent and the Limits of Sensitivity”
- Wednesday, Feb. 2 STEVE DASKAL (Ph.D. Candidate, University of Michigan)
“Contextual Justice and U.S. Welfare Policy”
- Friday, Feb. 4 RUSS SHAFER-LANDAU (Associate Professor, Wisconsin-Madison)
“Is Morality a Fiction?”
- Wednesday, Feb. 9 YURII COHEN (Ph.D. Candidate, Cornell University)
“Recycling The Function Argument: Moral Content on a Slender Basis?”
- Monday, Feb. 14 ANNE EATON (Assistant Professor, Bucknell University)
“What’s Wrong With the Female Nude?”
- Monday, Feb. 21 SUSANNE SREEDHAR (Ph.D. Candidate, UNC-Chapel Hill)
“Defending the Hobbesian Right of Self-Defense”
- Friday, March 4 ANDREW JANIAC (Assistant Professor, Duke University)
“What Can We Say About Things in Themselves?”
- Thursday, March 24 MATT CASWELL (Ph.D., Boston University)
“The Value of Humanity and Kant’s Conception of Evil”
- Friday, March 25 SIMON MAY (Visiting Assistant, UNC-Chapel Hill)
“The Currency of Contractualist Justification”
- Friday, April 1 OTÁVIO BUEON (Associate Professor, University of South Carolina)
“Mathematics, Structural Realism and Representation”
- Friday, April 8 KAREN STOHR (Assistant Professor, Georgetown University)
“Virtue Ethics and Moral Expertise”
- Tuesday, April 12 WILLIAM B. PROVINE (Professor, Cornell)
“Evolution and Free Will: A Response to Daniel Dennett’s Freedom Evolves”
[co-sponsored with the Department of Science and Technology in Society]

Wednesday, April 20

RON GIERE (Professor, University of Minnesota)

“Scientific Perspectives”

[co-sponsored with the Department of Economics and the Department of Science and Technology Studies]